No. 577.

A COLORED GLASS WINDOW.

The Edward S. Steele memorial for the Philadelphia High School, executed in the studios of the Tiffany Glass and Decorating Company of New York.

No. 578.

A CASE OF TIFFANY FAVRILE GLASS.

Twenty-four objects.

No. 579.

SUPERIMPOSED MOTIVES.

These pieces are obtained by combining layers of glass differently charged with metals, in some cases so heavily charged that the glass has taken on the appearance of metal rather than that of glass.

No. 580.

FLOWER MOTIVES.

The ornamentation, although produced by the means of opaque glass, does not interfere with the transparency of the pieces, because it is composed of threads of exceeding fineness, and so distributed that there is a line of clear glass between each thread.

No. 581.

PEACOCK MOTIVES.

This glass is made of five different varieties, namely: two of aventurine, two of transparent, and one of opaque.

The decoration is produced while the pieces are in a molten state, by inlaying them with threads, and manipulating this threading to a given design. When the blowing is finished, the pieces are then made iridescent by exposing them to the fumes of metals.

No. 582.

COLOR MOTIVES.

The variation in color in these pieces is due not to a different mixture of glasses, but to a difference in the degree of heat to which the one mixture has been subjected.

No. 583.

A CASE OF TIFFANY FAVRILE GLASS.

Six lamps, three plaques, four vases. A model of the Mosaic decoration in the rotunda of the Chicago Public Library. A figure panel in glass mosaic. Seven examples of glass mosaic. Four cartoons for colored windows—The Elements—earth, air, fire and water.

All the above objects are from the studios of the Tiffany Glass and Decorating Company, and were made under the personal supervision of Mr. Louis C. Tiffany.
